

Joash Low is surprisingly focused in his pursuits for an eight-year old boy. He becomes really engrossed in solving puzzles, playing games, and is similarly intense when he is at the piano. He was introduced to the piano when he was about four years old, and he loved it. He had recently started being coached by Dr Christina Tan, whose sharp ears and sound pedagogy had helped Joash enjoy playing the piano even more. He enjoys music that is cheerful and uplifting, regardless of genre, even though his face is serious while playing it.