

An Occupational Therapist turned Musician, Eunice Goh is a versatile performer, teacher, accompanist and composer. Eunice has a Bachelor of Music (Piano) from Queensland Conservatorium Griffith University (QCGU). She also plays the violin and had obtained ABRSM Grade 8 Piano, Violin and Grade 8 Theory qualifications at 13 years old. She has experience in ensemble groups such as piano trio and duo groups and string quartets. Past ensemble experiences include playing violin in the 2nd Queensland Youth Orchestra, Queensland Philanthropic Orchestra and chamber music functions. Besides her love for classical music, Eunice is also interested in experimental music and east-west music fusions. She has participated in experimental music events such as “The Sound of 84 Pianos” at the World Science Festival 2017. Her piano composition “This Moment” was a finalist piece performed and recorded live at the 3MBS Melbourne Radio Composition Awards 2015. She currently teaches piano and violin to young and mature-age students privately and at music schools. She is also actively involved in piano accompaniment for students at exams.
